RUTGERS, THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

CONVOCATION

May 2018
The gonfalon (located on the platform) for the School of Management and Labor Relations was designed to symbolize the mission of the school: to improve the relationship between management and labor in order to serve the public. The three colors used throughout the gonfalon represent the three parties interested in constructive employment relations: labor (red), management (blue), and the public (gold).

The inner set of triangles represents the common and sometimes ineffective interaction between labor and management and the consequences for the public. The shades of red, blue, and gold in the inner triangles are muted and dark. The role of the School of Management and Labor Relations is to improve the relationship. The School’s contributions to the better relationship between management and labor and ultimately to the benefit of the public is symbolized by the multi-pointed explosion of gold that lies behind the triangles. The result of the school’s contributions to the improved relationship between the participants in employment relations and to the public is shown in the outer set of triangles. The shades of blue, red, and gold in the outer triangles are bright and vivid.

The gonfalon was created in 1994 when the Institute of Management and Labor Relations was transformed into the School of Management and Labor Relations. Then Dean John Burton, Associate Dean Steven Director, and Assistant Dean Betty Lou Heffernan were responsible for the concept and general design of the gonfalon. Kevin Rau helped translate the concept into the final design.

Student Speakers

Arpita Gentela, Human Resource Management
Arpita Gentela graduated from the Master’s in Human Resource Management program in January 2018 as an international student from Mumbai, India. Before completing her master’s degree, Arpita graduated with a B.A. (Double Major) in Human Resource Management and Economics from Rutgers University-New Brunswick in May 2015. She also worked with Philips N.V. at their global headquarters in Amsterdam as an Integrated Talent Management Intern. Arpita joined Rutgers University Society for Human Resource Management (RU SHRM) in the fall of 2016 to widen her knowledge on current practices in HR and become an integral part of the HR community. She became a Project Manager on the Membership & Student Liaison team before being promoted to Vice President of the team in spring 2016. She interned with IBM’s compensation and recognition team during the summer of 2017, and she is currently working in IBM’s Global Executive Search Practice team at their corporate headquarters in Armonk, New York.

Adam Opitz, Labor and Employment Relations
Adam Opitz is a recent graduate of the Master’s in Labor and Employment Relations program. During his time as a student, he was a writing assistant for a variety of instructors within the School of Management and Labor Relations (SMLR). He also worked with SMLR Professors Charles Heckscher and Saul Rubinstein on their project involving collaborative initiatives within public education. During his final year as a student, he served as the President of the Rutgers University Labor and Employment Relations Association Chapter (RU LERA). He was recently awarded various certifications in alternative dispute resolution. He is now completing a mentorship with the New Jersey State Board of Mediation.

Guest Speaker

Barry Melnkovic, Senior Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer, U.S. Steel
Barry Melnkovic, MHRM ‘81, is the Vice President and Chief Human Resources Officer of U.S. Steel, an integrated steel producer with close to 30,000 employees in North America and Central Europe. In his role, he is accountable for all facets of the company’s global Human Resources and labor relations strategies and organizations.

Melnkovic previously served as Executive Vice President and Chief Human Capital Officer for Amtrak, where he played a key role in delivering record revenue, ridership, customer satisfaction and savings. During his tenure, Amtrak made the Forbes Best Employers list.

In 2016, Melnkovic was named the HR Executive of the Year by Human Resource Executive magazine and the Chief Human Resources Officer of the Year in the Large
Meet the HRM Undergraduate Honors Graduates

Undergraduate HRM Departmental Honors students conduct an original research project under the supervision of a faculty advisor and a senior thesis committee. The designations for the Undergraduate Honors project rankings are as follows:

- Highest Honors - HRM Honors Curriculum GPA of 3.75 or higher
- High Honors - HRM Honors Curriculum GPA from 3.5 to 3.74
- Honors - HRM Honors Curriculum GPA from 3.2 to 3.49

The cord for the HRM Departmental Honors program is a combination of Wedgewood blue and gold.

Tanla Ayik double majored in Human Resources Management and Information Technology and Informatics (ITI). Her honors thesis study analyzed the impact of human resources information systems (HRIS) on the employee selection process in human resources management under the supervision of Professor Patrick Downes. She has received high honors for her thesis project. Tanla is currently pursuing a Master’s degree in Human Resources Management here at Rutgers School of Management and Labor Relations. Upon graduation from the MHRM program in May 2019, Tanla plans to begin her career as a University Career Services counselor and as a community leader.

Gregory Burdea is graduating with a double major in Human Resource Management and Philosophy with a minor in Psychology. His honors thesis examined strategies for promoting organizational citizenship behaviors and compliance within organizations under the supervision of Professor Joseph Blasi. He has received highest honors for his thesis project. Greg is in the process of completing his one-year Human Resources Internship this month, where he served a critical HR support role for a growing advertising agency in Manhattan and worked regularly with the Human Resources Director. He is in the process of searching and interviewing for full-time opportunities in the Greater New York City area.

Amanda Wong is graduating with a major in Human Resource Management and a minor in Labor Studies with a concentration in Diversity in the Workplace. Her honors thesis engaged in a comparison of private sector wages to local, state, and federal government wages using occupational wage data under the supervision of Professor Charles Fay. For her thesis work she has received highest honors. After graduation, Amanda will be starting as a Senior Human Resource Assistant at Amazon.
James R. Chelius Teaching Award

The James R. Chelius Award was created in memory of Jim Chelius, a beloved teacher, scholar, and mentor in the Department of Human Resource Management. HRM students nominate an award recipient, and the selection is made with the consent of the HRM faculty. This year’s recipient is Patrick Downes.

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Teaching Award

The Labor Studies and Employment Relations Teaching Award recognizes the teaching excellence of a LSER faculty member. Undergraduates, graduate students and colleagues nominate a recipient and a selection is made by a committee of LSER faculty. This year’s teaching award goes to William Dwyer.

Honor Awards

Undergraduate students of the Human Resource Management program who achieve a 3.75 GPA or higher within the HRM Major receive an HRM Excellence pin and a certificate upon graduation. Students who achieved the honor before the Spring 2018 semester are designated with highest honors in HRM.

Undergraduate students of the Labor Studies and Employment Relations program achieving highest honors, high honor and honors in the major have white cords to adorn their regalia.

The baccalaureate degree is conferred summa cum laude, magna cum laude, and cum laude for students achieving honors in the overall program of study at Rutgers University. These students will have gold cords to adorn their regalia.

All SMLR Master’s degree students achieving an overall GPA of 4.000 have gold cords to adorn their regalia.

Congratulations, Class of 2018!

We are proud to welcome you to the Rutgers School of Management and Labor Relations Alumni & Friends, a constituent of the Rutgers Alumni Association as well as a charter member of the Rutgers University Alumni Association!

Today you join the more than 4,000 alumni of SMLR as well as a vast network of close to 500,000 Rutgers alumni worldwide. We are proud to call you ours and hope you will continue to stay connected with us by participating in alumni networking events, mentoring SMLR students, and supporting our school community.

This is only the beginning of what we hope will be a fulfilling journey!

With warmth and sincere best wishes,

The SMLR Alumni and Friends Executive Committee
