CONVOCATION

May 2019
Greeting from the Executive Dean

Congratulations School of Arts and Sciences Class of 2019!

It is a privilege for me to welcome you and your families to the School of Arts and Sciences Convocation.

Today, we celebrate your accomplishments. We are proud of the work you have done, the commitment you have shown, and the contributions you have made to the life of this great university.

Today we also celebrate the tradition of arts and sciences. The education you have received at the school has empowered you with the ability to grow and prosper throughout your lives and to meet any challenge that comes your way.

This year at Rutgers we are honoring the legacy of a very special alumnus. He was a pioneering scholar, athlete, renowned entertainer, and visionary human rights advocate. I am speaking, of course, about Paul Robeson, who graduated from Rutgers College in 1919. Paul Robeson boldly made his mark in the world while serving the highest ideals. His life reminds us of the possibilities created through an education in the arts and sciences and continues to inspire us.

Today, you also stand at the threshold of great possibilities. It is truly an honor for me to celebrate with you, to welcome you as Rutgers alumni, and to usher you into the next phase of your lives as graduates, active and engaged adults, and future leaders.

About the School of Arts and Sciences

The School of Arts and Sciences was created in 2007 as the centerpiece of a major initiative to transform undergraduate education at Rutgers University, one of the nation’s leading public research universities.

With roots that date back to the colonial history of higher education in America, the School of Arts and Sciences upholds the tradition of excellence established by Rutgers College, and continues the expansion of access to an outstanding university education created by Douglass, Livingston, and University Colleges.

Today the School of Arts and Sciences is a globally-engaged, 21st century teaching and research institution, committed to meeting the challenges of a rapidly-changing world while offering students unparalleled access to renowned faculty across the life sciences, humanities, mathematical and physical sciences, and social and behavioral sciences.

The School offers more than 50 majors, a residential Honors Program, and Signature Courses led by award-winning faculty that explore issues of enduring importance and new challenges of the 21st century.

With its historic central location on Voorhees Mall, the School of Arts and Sciences is a major presence throughout the New Brunswick and Piscataway campuses, from ivy-covered classroom buildings on the Douglass Campus to state-of-the-art laboratories on Busch and Livingston campuses.

Paul Robeson: Class of 1919 Valedictorian

Paul Robeson is one of Rutgers University’s most distinguished alumni and the quintessential 20th century Renaissance man.

In 2019, Rutgers marks the centennial anniversary of Robeson’s graduation from Rutgers College in 1919. In recognition, our community honors his achievements as a scholar, athlete, actor, singer, and global activist in a yearlong celebration featuring lectures, performances, art exhibitions, and more.

The university’s third black student, Robeson attended Rutgers on a full academic scholarship. He was an extraordinary scholar and athlete. He won 15 varsity letters in football, basketball, baseball, and track and is in the College Football Hall of Fame. Robeson, who spoke more than 20 languages fluently, honed his oratory skills as a member of the Intercollegiate Debating Association and was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa and Rutgers Cap and Skull Honor Societies.

After earning a law degree from Columbia Law School, Robeson began using his talents to promote African and African-American history and culture. Over nearly four decades, he achieved worldwide acclaim as a vocalist, orator, and actor on stage and screen. A towering figure in the African-American struggle for human dignity and democratic rights, Robeson connected this struggle with people around the world fighting for political rights, cultural recognition, and economic justice.

In June 1919, Paul Robeson stood before the audience assembled for the Rutgers College graduation to deliver his address: “The New Idealism.” He opened by thanking recent World War I veterans for forging a “new American spirit,” one that he charged his audience to embrace by joining him in this “fight for the great principles for which they contended, until in all sections of this fair land there will be equal opportunities for all, and character shall be the standard of excellence . . . and until black and white shall clasp friendly hands.”

Robeson developed these ideas in his senior thesis on “The Fourteenth Amendment, the Sleeping Giant of the American Constitution,” calling for its use “to ensure equality before the law (so) the American people shall develop a higher sense of constitutional morality.”

In honor of this outstanding scholar and valedictorian, the School of Arts and Sciences continues the Livingston College tradition of designating students who complete an honors thesis as Paul Robeson Scholars. In this way, Paul Robeson’s legacy is recognized each year as over 250 Rutgers graduates who have defended an honors thesis in the School of Arts and Sciences receive this honor.

Throughout his life, Paul Robeson worked toward the “American Idealism” he espoused in his valedictory speech. The spotlight that shines on Robeson on the centennial of his graduation from Rutgers illuminates the rich legacy he left at the university and the world.
Recipients of the 2019 Awards for Distinguished Contribution to Undergraduate Education

Each year, awards for Distinguished Contributors to Undergraduate Education are given to professors and instructors in the School of Arts and Sciences to recognize their outstanding achievements in the classroom, their engagement with their students, and their overall commitment to undergraduate education.

Graduation Honors

The bachelor’s degree is conferred “Summa Cum Laude” to graduating seniors with a cumulative grade-point average of 3.850 or better, “Magna Cum Laude” to those with a cumulative average of 3.700 or better, and “Cum Laude” to those with a cumulative average of 3.500 or better. Since the final grades are known within only a few days of commencement, it is not possible to include levels of honors in this program. They will be imprinted on the diploma and noted on the transcript. Candidates graduating with Graduation Honors are presented with gold honors cords to adorn their academic regalia.

School of Arts and Sciences
Paul Robeson Scholars

The designation of Paul Robeson Scholar is conferred upon School of Arts and Sciences students who have successfully defended a departmental or interdisciplinary senior thesis, as Paul Robeson himself did in 1919. The School of Arts and Sciences continues this Livingston College tradition to honor Robeson’s extraordinary accomplishments as a student which includes being inducted into Phi Beta Kappa and Rutgers Cap and Skull Honor Societies. The Class of 1919 Valedictorian, Paul Robeson went on to become one of Rutgers University’s most distinguished alumni, as a scholar, performer, and human rights advocate.
Henry Rutgers Scholar Awards

The School of Arts and Sciences Henry Rutgers Scholar Awards recognize the outstanding senior honors theses, either departmental or interdisciplinary, for the academic year. To be considered for a Henry Rutgers Scholar Award, a student must have presented his/her research at the Aresty Research Center Symposium, a department-based research event, or a professional conference, and be nominated by his/her academic department and/or individual advisor.

The Academic Costume

The wearing of academic dress dates back to the early days of the oldest universities in the world. In the American Council on Education’s book entitled American Universities and Colleges, it is suggested that “Gowns may have been counted necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars. Hoods seem to have served to cover the tonsured head. . . .”

Throughout the years, European universities have continued to show great diversity in their academic dress. American universities, on the other hand, when they decided to adopt academic dress, immediately established a code of regulations which today is followed by almost all American institutions. The establishment of this code has made it possible to distinguish between the Bachelors, Masters, and Doctors, and, at the same time, recognize the university which has given them the degree.

Gowns: Bachelor’s gown has pointed sleeves and is worn closed. Master’s gown, worn open or closed, has oblong sleeves, the front part of which frequently is cut away at the elbow. Doctor’s gown has bell-shaped sleeves. It is worn open or closed. Cotton poplin or similar material is used for the Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees, and rayon or silk ribbed material is used for the Doctor’s degree.

Hoods: The hoods vary in sizes: 48 inches for the Doctor’s degree, 42 inches for the Master’s, and 36 inches for the Bachelor’s. All hoods are lined in silk in the academic color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the colors are shown in divisions using chevrons. The binding or edge of the hood is usually made of velvet in the color designating the subject in which the degree was granted.

Below is a list of some of the faculty colors as prescribed by the Intercollegiate Code for the binding of the hood:

The color or colors of the lining of the hood for the nine colonial colleges are: scarlet, Rutgers; crimson, Harvard; green-gold-silver, William and Mary; blue, Yale; red-blue, Pennsylvania; orange-black, Princeton; light blue-white, Columbia; brown, Brown; and green-white, Dartmouth.

Caps: Black mortarboards or soft hats are worn for all degrees. The gold tassel signifies a Doctorate.
